Khabarovsk Institute Admits Students -- Tikhookeanskaya Zvezda, No 144, 21 Jun 49

The Khabarovsk Institute of Railroad Transport Engineers is registering students for the first-year course in the departments of construction, mechanics, and exploitation. The course of training is 5 years, 7 months. Students who wish to study without losing working time will be admitted to the night-school division. Entrance requirements are the same as those for all USSR higher technical schools. Entrance examinations, given from 1 to 20 August, will cover Russian language and literature, mathematics, physics, chemistry, German or English language, and drafting, (for those entering the construction department). Classes begin on 1 September, and applications will be accepted until 31 July. Address: Khabarovsk, ulitsa imeni Nekrasova, 115. -- Advertisement

GRADUATES RAILROAD ENGINEERS -- Moloday Dal'nevostochnik, No 116, 22 Jun 49

The Khabarovsk Institute of Railroad Transport Engineers will soon graduate 73 students. The 53 students who graduated several months ago already have started work in the Far East Railroad System.

LAXNESS CRITICIZED -- Tikhookeanskaya Zvezda, No 128, 2 Jun 49

Fel'dman, deputy chief of the transport section of the Khabarovsk Kray Committee VKP(b), reported at the 12th Khabarovsk City Party Conference that the work of the city party committee has been entirely unsatisfactory in regard to directing higher educational institutions, in particular the Institute of Railroad Transport Engineers. The institute, and its director, Pavlenko, have violated the regulations on admission into higher educational institutions. Nearly one half of the students in the construction department do not have documents certifying their completion of secondary school. In the last 4 months, more than half of the students in the mechanics and construction departments have stopped attending classes. The condition of scientific research work is not meeting present-day demands. Only 11 of the 36 scientific works completed in the last 3 years have been introduced into
